KEY TRENDS IN 2023

- Hospitals continued working to clear critical surgery backlogs, which grew dramatically during the pandemic.
- Mental health remained a top concern, with 1.6 million youth reporting disorders such as anxiety and depression, and nearly one-quarter of youth hospitalizations being mental health-related.
- Researchers continued to explore how artificial intelligence, robotics and other advances might transform diagnosis, treatment, and care.

CCHF's national statistics reflect input from 13 hospitals, each with its own data-gathering practices. All figures are carefully vetted for accuracy, but variations in reporting periods or other differences may sometimes lead to discrepancies, especially undercounts. The financial figure presented is based on fundraising campaign data and does not correlate to CCHF audited financial statements as some campaigns may straddle two calendar years.

If we change the health of children, we will change the health of Canada.
